

When did you get the sinking feeling this place was off kilter?

ALWAYS ON. ALWAYS THERE.

A highrise begins to sink. A patent owner claims infringement. Fortunately, we have reporters with expertise in construction, IP, antitrust, pharma, medical, environmental and business litigation to ensure what is said is transcribed...literally.

Court reporting is the foundation of U.S. Legal Support's business. It's in our DNA — we built our reputation, and our company, on consistent, expert reporting. By providing a matchless combination of personal service, innovation and scale, we have earned a reputation as the partner attorneys rely on for dependable, professional court reporting.

The foundation of this for us is service. U.S. Legal Support has working relationships with more than 5,000 independent court reporting professionals across the country. No matter where you may need them, we can provide an experienced, professional court reporter for any situation — depositions, arbitrations, trials, interviews — anywhere in the United States.

But that's just the beginning. We deliver the reported testimony to our clients in an advanced digital Litigation Support Package including your transcript, exhibits and video testimony seamlessly linked and searchable. Our team has generated literally millions of deposition transcripts — we can provide virtually any feature your legal team needs in virtually any format.

We have established the largest pool of specialized reporters in the United States and abroad

Whether your case concerns environmental law, securities, construction defect, medical or business litigation, we have reporters available with the expertise you require. Years of experience means they understand specialized terminology, are familiar with the concepts they're reporting on, and work smoothly, unobtrusively and accurately. We can also provide experienced teams for major cases on an ongoing basis, providing you with reporting continuity throughout your complex case.

More than 85 offices around the country

Our on-site capabilities are buttressed by an administrative team and procedures developed over decades to ensure consistent quality. We have more than 85 offices around the country, staffed by expert teams ready to accommodate the unique needs of your case. We work with some of the most professional reporters in the business, adhering to strict standards for transcript quality, proper licensing and qualifications. Our service and work product are second to none.

State-of-the-art technical capability and infrastructure

All this careful, hands-on work is supported by a state-of-the-art technical capability and infrastructure that's the result of decades of research, development and testing. The backbone is our online client portal which provides clients with the full scope of information about everything from upcoming depositions to account activity, invoices, transcripts, videos and exhibits, all searchable, indexed and secure. Need document depository management? We have you covered there, too, with our document depository services.

uslegalsupport.com

More than 85 offices around the country

More than 5,000 independent court reporting professionals with specialized areas of expertise

Complex Case Management

State-of-the-art technical capabilities and infrastructure

Remote and local text streaming

Legal Videography

Interpreting Services

Client Portal with 24/7 online access to calendar, transcripts, invoices and more

Document Depository

For ongoing cases with a need for document management, U.S. Legal Support provides document depository services. We offer a secure online location for produced documents to be available to all parties in a case, whenever they're needed and around the clock. You can download and print documents at your convenience. Contents of your case depository are regularly reviewed and updated.

For digital documents, our enhanced depository platform provides full search and retrieval capability including text searches across multiple documents, the ability to create document folders and subfolders, highlighting, annotation, redaction, tagging and more. And it's all online — log in, provide a password, and all of your documents are waiting. In case of difficulty, dedicated depository client service is always available.